MISCELLANEOUS READING. From the New York Spirit of the Times.

"LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE." "A life on the Ocean Wave!" The man who wrote it was green ; He never has been to sea, And a storm he never has seen.

He never has seen a wave As it dashed o'er the vessel's deck; He never has seen a fire at sea, Or been floating upon a wreck. He never has been aroused

From his morning's gentle doze, By the sound of the splashing water, As it fell from the horrid hose. He never has heard a man

Scrubbing right over his head, With a noise sufficient to rouse From the grave the slumbering dead. He never has seen a fat woman Growing thinner day by day,

And leaning over the vessel's side, Throwing herself away; While people look carelessly on, Though in tears the woman may be, And unfeelingly say it is nothing at all,

Only the roll of the ses. Sea sick he ne'er has been to his toes, And crept into bed in his cost, While every motion increased his throes, And his feelings were all in his throat.

That man may have sailed in a boat, In some puddle, or on a sound, But if he has been to sea, and wrote Such a song, he deserves to be drown'd.

SYDNEY SMITH ON TEETOTALISM. Sydney Smith, in spite of his reputation and habits as a diner out, gives some very excellent advice on the subject of temperance. In one of his letters he says he never knew a gentleman who ate or drank as little as was good for his health. In the following epistle to Lady Holland, he speaks more decidedly in favor of abstinence from all fermented liquors: "My dear Lady Holland : Many thanks for your kind anxiety respecting my health. I not only was never better, but never half so well. Indeed, I find that I have been very ill all my life without knowing it. Let me state some of the goods arising from abstaining from all fermented liquors: First, sweet sleep. Having never known what sweet sleep was like a baby or a plough boy. If I wake, no needless terrors, no black visions of life, but pleasing hopes and recollections ; Holland House past and to come! If I dream, it is not of lions CIPRING SUPPLY OF HARDWARE AND and tigers, but of Easter dues and tithes. Secondly, I can take longer walks and make greater exertions without fatigue. My understanding is improved, and I comprehend political economy. I see better without wine and spectacles than whom I used both. Only one evil ensues from it-I am in such extra vagant spirits that I must lose blood or look out for some one who will bore and depress me. Pray leave off wine-the stomach quiet at rest; no heartburn, no pain, no distension! Yours, SYDNEY SMITH.
